HOW THE EDUCATORS ARE SPENDING THE PEOPLE'S MONEY

The last legislature appropriated about $600,000 to the running of the Kirksville Normal school for the next two years. A board of regents of seven men appointed by the governor are charged with the duty of supervising the school and the expenditure of the money. We have direct information from Drake Watson, who is a member of the Kirksville board, as to some of the actual doings of that school that we think are of general public concern. The school is actually and in fact managed and controlled by John R. Kirk, the president of it. He not only is the only living person who sits with the board in its meetings (and those meetings of the full board usually are a session of about 1 to 2 hours—once a year,) but he actually arrogates to himself the duties of the board, goes out and collects money from the students of that school, and does so without authority of the board. He spends the money so collected by paying his salary and that of his teachers. We have with us a notice that lately the school teachers' salaries have been raised from the low scale of a few years ago, but not only have they now have in a manner formed a union and today when 25 per cent of the value of the farmer's land has been taken away and 50 per cent of his hog and cattle and 75 per cent of his wheat and corn, and most everything else is declining (the steel trust reduced its wages 20 per cent the other day and recently the United States Labor Board lopped off four hundred million dollars from the railroads' payroll), yet in the face of all these declines the teachers are virtually threatening to strike if their salaries are not only kept as high as they are but are virtually demanding raises. Two years ago the salary of Mr. Kirk, president of the Kirksville school, was raised from $4,000 to $5,000. A year ago it was raised from $5,000 to $6,000 and the salaries of the other teachers were also raised along with his. The first of last December at the rate of pay the teachers had agreed to work for during the year their salaries would all be paid out of the funds appropriated for salaries by the legislature and several thousand dollars not used that would at the first of the year then have been turned back to the state treasury. So rather than let this go back to the state treasury the same quarter of the year who went to that was parceled out to the teachers and Mr. Kirk's salary was raised to $6,500 per year. This, as we view it, was a gift of the people's money and the teachers did not perform any service whatsoever for it more than they had already been hired to perform. Having raised their salaries, they then urged the legislature to appropriate money in the future based on their highest salaries. The legislature is the body charged with appropriating the money for such educational institutions. The people speak through it, and its word should be final. It appropriated a certain sum for salary for the next two years. In order to pay these teachers salaries then high figure they would have all the money appropriated by the legislature for salaries and about $25,000 besides. President Kirk conceived the idea of taking from the incidental fund about $12,000 (notwithstanding the students have not enough chairs to sit in now, and this is the fund out of which chairs ought to be bought), and paying this $12,000 to the teachers for salaries and then he still lacked about $13,000 of what he wanted so to get that he not only conceived the idea but he put it into execution and added $2,500 to the fees paid by students each
